Clinton Correctional Facility Manhunt

On June 6, 2015, Clinton County Correctional Facility inmates Richard Matt and David Sweat were discovered missing during the 5:30 a.m. standing count at the maximum-security prison in the village of Dannemora.

Matt had been serving a 25 year to life sentence for murder, robbery and kidnapping with no chance of parole until 2032. Sweat was serving life without parole for the killing of a Broome County NY Sheriff's Deputy.

The inmates cut through the steel walls of their adjacent cells, traversed down six stories of internal catwalks, burrowed through a cement wall, and crawled through a 24-inch diameter steam pipe for 13 feet. After cutting a second hole in the pipe, they travelled another 405 feet toward the facility's powerhouse. The two then cut a chain and lock which secured a manhole cover, and emerged at the intersection of Bouck and Barker streets, expecting to be met by Clinton Correctional employee Joyce Mitchell.

Mitchell was not there to meet Matt and Sweat, so both subjects fled the area on foot. The last sighting for the next 14 days was by a resident of Bouck Street who confronted both subjects in his backyard. They apologized and continued walking on Bouck Street. What followed would be a historic manhunt in the history of New York State.

At its peak, the manhunt necessitated the assignment of over 1,400 federal, tribal, state, county and local agencies per day, incorporating a wide range of technologically and physically demanding assignments, from some of the most highly trained tactical teams in the world, to a massive number of fixed road checks and stationary posts.

The first true break in the manhunt came on June 20, 2015, when a corrections officer visited his camp in Owls Head and observed two individuals run from the camp. Food and clothing left behind was secured, forwarded to the State Police Forensics Investigation Center (FIC) for DNA analysis, and subsequently confirmed to be from Matt and Sweat. This forensic conclusion was the first evidence that Matt and Sweat were still in the area. Roving and fixed posts were adjusted to account for this new information.

On June 26, 2015, a State Police team received a report of gunshots near State Route 30 at the town line of Malone and Duane. Members noted the smell of gunpowder near a small camper. The camper and adjacent structures were searched, and the US Border Patrol "BORTAC" tactical team was advised. A short time later, with State Police members staffing the adjacent wood line, Richard Matt refusing verbal commands to drop a shotgun, leveled the shotgun at BORTAC team members and was subsequently shot and killed. The State Police members established a perimeter around Matt and tactical teams searched the surrounding area for David Sweat with negative results.

On June 28, 2015, Technical Sergeant Jay Cook, Troop B-TIM Unit, was patrolling Coveytown Road, in the town of Constable, approximately two and a half miles south of Canada, anticipating Sweat was travelling toward the border. Sergeant Cook observed an individual crossing the road in the area of a stone wall across a field, recognized the subject as David Sweat, and issued verbal commands for Sweat to stop. Sweat refused and began to run. Technical Sergeant Cook pursued Sweat on foot, continuing to issue verbal commands. After pursuing Sweat for over 100 yards and having no other option to gain custody of the escaped murderer, Technical Sergeant Cook discharged his Division issued firearm, striking Sweat from in excess of 50 yards. Sweat was taken into custody. T/Sgt. Cook then coordinated the immediate medical care of Sweat, undoubtedly contributing to saving his life.

Throughout the manhunt, the Clinton and Franklin County residents demonstrated an exceptional level of tolerance and support of law enforcement. At the conclusion of the manhunt, the citizens of the village of Dannemora lined Cook Street, in front of the Main Gate of Clinton Correctional, cheering every police vehicle that drove through.

New York State Police Wall of Honor

Trooper Donald R. Fredenburg Jr., 23, collapsed and died when he suffered a fatal heart attack while participating in the daily physical training run with fellow members of the 203rd Session of the Basic School on March 13, 2015.

Trooper Fredenburg was a United States Marine, having served for four years, prior to entering the Division on March 2, 2015.

BASIC SCHOOL GRADUATIONS

The New York State Police welcomed 425 new members of the State Police in 2015. Graduations were held for the 202nd and 203rd Sessions of the Basic School of the New York State Police Academy.

The Basic School for New York State Troopers consists of 26 weeks of training. It is one of the most comprehensive law enforcement recruit training programs in the country and is designed to provide newly appointed troopers with the academic foundation, physical fitness and technical skills necessary to perform their complex, varied police duties with professionalism and excellence.

Basic School training is residential; recruits are required to live at the Academy. Class sizes have ranged from 50 to more than 200 recruits, depending upon departmental needs and budgetary considerations. Each student's commitment is constantly tested by the school's demanding and rigorous college-level program.

To graduate a recruit must successfully complete 1,095 hours of training provided by certified law enforcement professionals and members of the New York State Police.

Bravery is Honored

In July 2015, Trooper Donald L. Atkinson and Trooper Lawrence F. Gurdo II, both from SP Whitney Point, were dispatched by Broome County 911 for a distressed swimmer in an area of restricted water near the main dam structure at the Whitney Point Dam in the town of Triangle. Trooper Atkinson was the first to arrive at the dam and learned from witnesses that a 14-year-old girl had been yelling for help after being pulled into one of the dam's intake tunnels. He was able to hear the girl but could not see her. Atkinson told her help was on the way and started talking to her as he entered the water. He determined she was choking from the water, was becoming increasingly tired and panicked and was at risk of hypothermia.

Trooper Atkinson approached the intake opening in an effort to locate and rescue the victim. It was at this time a passerby entered the water in an effort to assist Trooper Atkinson. Trooper Gurdo arrived on scene and provided a rope the passerby, who handed it to Trooper Atkinson. Upon receiving the rope, Trooper Atkinson continued to the intake. Simultaneously, Trooper Gurdo entered the water from the other side of the structure which contained the three intake tunnels, and proceeded to the intake tunnel entrances. Atkinson continued to check the entry way for each of the tunnels, almost being pulled into one of them by the powerful current. Upon reaching the third and last entryway, Trooper Atkinson located the victim within the tunnel. Trooper Gurdo, who had joined Trooper Atkinson, assisted him up onto an overhead ledge two feet above the water. This ledge was part of a grate covering the entryway above the intake tunnel. Trooper Atkinson finally saw the victim, exhausted and attempting to keep her head above water by grabbing onto the smooth concrete walls. He threw the victim a rope which she was able to grab onto. Trooper Atkinson and Trooper Gurdo, who had also climbed onto the ledge, then pulled the victim up and removed her from the water to the safety of the ledge. Shortly thereafter, the fire department arrived in a boat to safely extract the troopers from the structure. The victim was transported to a nearby hospital where she was treated for hypothermia, exhaustion and minor scratches and then released.

United States Army Corps of Engineer personnel assigned to the dam advised the speed of the water going through the intake tunnels is approximately 1,400 cubic feet per second, thus creating an extremely strong undercurrent. It was also determined the water temperature at the time of this rescue was 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Corps of Engineer personnel stated no one would have survived had they gone any further into the intake tunnel as they would have been pulled underwater into a ¼ mile long tunnel and would not be able to overcome the current.

Trooper Atkinson and Trooper Gurdo were awarded the New York State Police's highest award – the Brummer Award – for their heroic actions. They also received the New York State Officer of the Year Award. Furthermore, Trooper Atkinson was national named Motorola Trooper of the Year by the International Association of Chiefs of Police for his heroic actions.

Remembering Superintendent Constantine

Superintendent Thomas A. Constantine passed away May 3, 2015, following a brief illness.

Superintendent Constantine joined the New York State Police in 1962 as a uniform trooper. Over the next 34 years, Constantine rose through all uniform and investigative positions, serving as Troop Commander, Staff Inspector, and Field Commander.

In 1986, Constantine was nominated by Governor Mario Cuomo to be Superintendent of the New York State Police. It was the first time in 30 years that a State Police member rose through the ranks and was appointed to lead the agency.

During his time as Superintendent, Constantine instituted State Police Forensic Investigation Support Services to provide support during violent crime investigations, more than quadrupled the number of investigators in the State Police Narcotics Unit to combat a growing drug problem, and oversaw the creation of the Colonel Henry F. Williams Homicide Seminar, the first of its kind, bringing homicide investigators from around the world to hear from leading medical, forensic, legal, and investigative experts.

Superintendent Constantine retired from the New York State Police in 1994.

He went on to be appointed Administrator of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration by President Bill Clinton, a position he held until his retirement in 1999.

Superintendent Constantine also served as Oversight Commissioner for a major reform of provincial policing in Northern Ireland, and since 1999, a professor at UAlbany's Rockefeller College of Public Affairs and Policy.

The New York State Police thank Superintendent Constantine for his service to his country, his state, and his unwavering support of the Division during and after his time with the agency.

History Made as First Female Appointed First Deputy

In 2015, Patricia M. Groeber was appointed as First Deputy Superintendent of the New York State Police, placing her second in command of the 4,800 member agency. The appointment, made by Superintendent Joseph A. D'Amico, marks the first time that a female member has been appointed to the position in the 98-year history of the State Police.

First Deputy Superintendent Groeber oversees the daily operations of all aspects of the Division, including Field Command, Administration, Employee Relations and Internal Affairs. She joined the State Police on September 22, 1986, starting as a Trooper in Troop G. She has served in numerous positions throughout career, and was appointed on May 4, 2013, as Field Commander. In that position she was the first woman to ever serve as third in command of the agency, overseeing operations of the Uniform Force, the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, the New York State Intelligence Center and the Office of Counter Terrorism.

Aviation Unit

Flights Conducted	865

The New York State Police Aviation unit consists of four stations with the headquarters located in Albany. The other stations are located at Adirondack Regional Airport (Saranac Lake), Stewart International Airport (Newburgh) and Greater Rochester International Airport.

On July 18, 2015, Aviation - Rochester was requested at Letchworth State Park to help rescue a 23-year-old male hiker who had fallen from a waterfall and broken his leg. The crew utilized the rescue hoist to rescue the victim.

In May 2015, Aviation – Newburgh participated in fire-fighting operations utilizing assigned Huey aircraft in the towns of Wurtsboro, Ellenville, Phoenicia, and Lanesville. Working closely with New York State Forest Rangers, they dropped over 100 buckets of water on the fires, enabling ground firefighters to contain and defeat the wildfires.

On August 28, 2015, Aviation – Albany responded to Saratoga Springs for a report of a missing six-year-old. The aircrew located the child and directed Troopers to the location, saving the child.

On March 23, 2015, Aviation – Saranac Lake and Aviation – Albany located a mother and her two sons, ages 11 and seven, who had gotten lost during a hike on Mt. Marcy the previous evening. Due to the extremely low temperatures there was an added sense of urgency. A Forest Ranger was inserted to assist the victims and SORT members were directed to the scene. All three family members survived without serious injury.

Bomb Disposal Unit

Total Incidents Handled	332

The Division Bomb Disposal Unit has nine members and is responsible for a majority of the upstate area, responding to calls for improvised explosive devices, recovered military ordinance, commercial explosives and fireworks.

The Bomb Disposal Unit currently maintains four facilities located in Albany, Newburgh, Watertown and Batavia. Each facility is equipped with disposal equipment such as disposal trailers, robots and hazardous materials suits. Each bomb technician carries critical first responder equipment with them including X-ray and bomb suits.

Division Bomb Technicians handled 332 incidents during 2015. These calls included 16 commercial explosive recovery and destructions, 33 military ordnance destructions, and 53 recovered fireworks destructions, totaling thousands of pounds of illegal fireworks. The unit also responded to four homemade improvised explosive device calls.

In March 2015, the Bomb Disposal Unit assisted State Police in Deposit following a burglary investigation. It was discovered that the defendant had stolen 20 pounds of C-4 and 12 detonators. Bomb Disposal Unit members responded and were able to locate the items buried in a wooded area.

In March 2015, the Bomb Disposal Unit assisted the city of Schenectady Police Department and New York State Parole after a search of a parolee's residence resulted in the discovery of detonating cord, detonator, an improvised explosive device and ammunition.

In April 2015, the Bomb Disposal Unit was assigned to assist the Massachusetts State Police with security at the Boston Marathon. The New York State Police sent bomb technicians with their explosive detection canines to the event.

In December 2015, the Bomb Disposal Unit was requested to assist the city of Schenectady Police Department with a suspicious item found in a yard behind a residence. Examination of the item revealed it was a 16 oz. can filled with gasoline, gun powder, fireworks, and rags wrapped in black tape with a fuse attached. The defendant thought people were trying to break into his apartment and he constructed the device as a booby trap. and SORT members were directed to the scene. All three family members survived without serious injury.

Canine Unit

The New York State Police Canine Unit was first organized in 1975 when the Division sent its first three members to the City of Baltimore, Maryland. These three initial canine teams were specifically trained in explosive detection in preparation for the 1976 and 1980 Olympics. All canines are donated through the generosity of breeders, private individuals, and humane societies. State Police canines are named after deceased members killed in the line of duty.

The current strength of the State Police Canine Unit is 90 teams. Of these teams, 86 are full-service dogs (patrol trained) with a detection specialty. The remaining four are bloodhounds. There are 57 narcotic detection teams, 28 narcotic teams cross trained for cadaver detection, 29 explosive detection teams and four bloodhound teams.

In June 2015, Trooper Eric F. Knapp, Troop D – Oneida, was requested to assist the Postal Inspector with a canine narcotics sniff of three suspicious packages. K-9 Scotty alerted to all three packages which contained two pounds of cocaine and 16 pounds of marijuana. The two cocaine packages were packed in multiple vacuum sealed bags along with masking odors of vinegar, carbon paper and dryer sheets. The marijuana package was a box, within a box, with the marijuana in vacuum sealed bags, sealed in double layers of Ziplock bags.

Trooper Dean Nolte and Canine Nugent at the Erie County Fair

In July 2015, Trooper David B. Ruderfer, Troop T – Albany, and K9 Lane conducted a vehicle and traffic stop on I-87 northbound in the town of Plattekill. After the operator and the passenger offered several discrepancies about their whereabouts, reason for trip, and timeline, the operator gave verbal consent to search the vehicle. K9 Lane alerted on the front passenger's side door, door handle and seat. Further search of the front seat located a clear plastic bag containing approximately 36 grams of cocaine.

The Contaminated Crime Scene Emergency Response Team (CCSERT) four regional teams provide state-level response to actual, suspected or perceived crime scenes in which chemical, biological, explosive, radiological, or nuclear contamination or components may be present. 120 members are all certified Hazardous Material Technicians that can provide emergency response capability to support law enforcement agencies when responding to contaminated crime scenes or hazardous conditions.

The first documented clandestine drug lab involving methamphetamine in New York State was in 1999. During that year, there were a total of four clandestine/drug labs discovered, three of which involved the manufacturing of methamphetamine. The number of clandestine labs/incidents in New York State has continued to increase with the Contaminated Crime Scene Emergency Response Team (CCSERT) handling 327 clandestine labs during 2015.

Members of CCSERT at a scene in Lewis County

On November 28, 2015, CCSERT Central was called to George Street in the village of Croghan where a deceased subject was found along with numerous unknown chemicals and hand-written chemical equations. Preliminary testing led members to believe that the deceased was possibly manufacturing PCP. The New York National Guard 2nd Civil Support Team and CCSERT worked together but were unable to determine the purpose of the chemicals possessed by the deceased. CCSERT assisted in the removal of the deceased from the apartment and the Department of Environmental Conservation assisted with the removal of the dangerous chemicals.

On December 24, 2015, CCSERT Central team responded along with the Madison County Sheriff's Department, to the town of Lincoln to mitigate one of the largest methamphetamine labs ever found in Madison County. The investigation revealed the defendants were making methamphetamine and disposing of the cooking materials in the creek behind their residence. One hundred and twenty-four spent "one pot" bottles were recovered along with finished methamphetamine, precursors used in manufacturing methamphetamine, marijuana and firearms. The defendants were each charged with felony unlawful manufacture of methamphetamine 3rd degree and felony unlawful disposal of a methamphetamine lab.

Crime Lab

The NYSP's Crime Laboratory System (CLS) provides statewide support to all state criminal justice agencies with state-of-the-art forensic analytical and investigative capabilities and expert testimony related to the investigation and resolution of criminal matters. The System has four laboratories located across the state.

In June and July 2015, following the escape of Richard Matt and David Sweat from Clinton Correctional Facility, the Biological Sciences section analyzed 343 evidence items and issued 20 separate forensics reports. DNA matches to both Matt and Sweat were made on 24 items. By providing rapid evidence turnaround, the identifications provided crucial information about the escapees' location and direction of travel, enabling law enforcement to focus their search.

In September of 2013, a 22-year-old woman visiting New York City from a foreign country was lured to an isolated area and raped her at knife point. A DNA profile was developed resulting identifying the perpetrator who was subsequently apprehended and brought to justice in July of 2015.

In May of 2015, a subject robbed a bank in the town of Bethlehem. Sunglasses worn by the suspect were submitted to the FIC and a partial latent print was secured off one of the lenses. The suspect was identified using the fingerprint analysis.

IAB

The Internal Affairs Bureau (IAB) has a wide range of responsibilities that further the mission of Division. It is divided into two sections: An investigative section that oversees investigations into allegations of misconduct by Division employees and an audit section that manages the Division's audit and inspection processes.

Investigative Section

One of the primary responsibilities of the IAB is to ensure the prompt and thorough investigation of allegations of misconduct by NYSP employees. In 2015, the IAB Investigative Section conducted 545 investigations with the final determination as follows:

FINAL DETERMINATION	NUMBER OF INVESTIGATIONS
CLOSED BY INVESTIGATION	79
FOUNDED	250
UNFOUNDED	89
UNSUBSTANTIATED	127
TOTAL	545

IAB staff also must respond to critical incidents with troop and field command supervisory personnel throughout the year. A critical incident is defined as any action by a sworn member that results in serious physical injury or death to another person or member.

Audit Section

The internal audit process is considered an essential tool for government accountability. The current internal audit process allows us to comply with the mandates of the Internal Control Act by obtaining, analyzing and evaluating information concerning the operations, administration and management of any troop, zone, station, detail or section. This process helps identify strengths and weaknesses, and leads to instructions, recommendations, and/or suggestions to improve Division's performance. In 2015, the IAB Audit Section conducted 31 Division-level audits.

To maximize the success of our zero tolerance policy regarding illegal drug use and drug/substance abuse, the Division randomly screens all sworn members using urinalysis and hair testing methods. The Division's testing standards have been designed to ensure the member's personal confidentiality and dignity is maintained while simultaneously safeguarding the screening process. In 2015, the IAB Audit Section conducted a total of 1,678 urine tests and 559 hair tests broken down as follows:

Tests Administered	Urine Tests	Hair Tests
Member Random Drug Tests	1131	12
Probationary Trooper Tests	327	327
Recruit Trooper Tests	220	220
Total	1678	559

Surveys

The NYSP administers several types of citizen satisfaction surveys on a regular basis. During Division-level audits, IAB staff members perform telephone and personal surveys with internal and external customers. In addition, IAB has managed a mail survey program since April 1999.

Early Intervention Program

The Early Intervention Program (EIP) is a progressive, remedial program, conducted under the oversight of the Chief Inspector. It is a two-phase process, designed to identify Members who demonstrate a pattern of conduct in need of improvement. The program provides support to Members in the form of counseling, re-training, re-orientation, or increased supervision. The EIP provides these resources with the intent to prevent minor professional or personnel issues from becoming a larger concern.

Intelligence Bulletins Disseminated 262

The New York State Intelligence Center (NYSIC), is the officially designated fusion center for New York State. Since its opening in 2003, the New York State Intelligence Center has promoted timely and accurate information exchange among New York law enforcement agencies at the local, state, and federal level.

The NYSIC, a multi-agency, all-crimes fusion center identifies, prevents, and protects New York against emerging domestic and international terrorist and criminal threats through information collection, analysis, and dissemination of intelligence. The NYSIC provides investigative and analytic resources, subject matter expertise, and information in an effort to detect, prevent and respond to both criminal and terrorist activity.

The NYSIC is comprised of two separate sections, the Counter Terrorism Center and Criminal Intelligence Section, that work together seamlessly to support the NYSIC Mission.

- In November of 2015, the New York State Police and NYSIC co-hosted the annual New York State Intelligence Summit in Bolton Landing, NY. This Summit provided attendees with terrorist threat briefings, overviews of new counter terrorism initiatives from both a national and state perspective, as well as a poignant presentation on the Clinton Correctional Facility escape and manhunt.
- In June of 2015, the Counter Terrorism Center assisted the North Greenbush Police Department regarding a larceny investigation involving a foreign national stealing NYS Lottery instant scratch-off tickets totaling $27,000 from his employer's gas station. The CTC developed leads resulting in the successful location and arrest of the subject as he attempted to board a one-way flight to Pakistan at JFK International Airport.
- On November 23, 2015, a NYSP Narcotics Officer contacted NYSIC via telephone advising of a large shipment of cocaine headed by vehicle to Troop B from California. Following an investigation by NYSIC, Troop B personnel intercepted that vehicle. Following an interview and search, State Police located a hidden compartment inside the vehicle and recovered approximately 47 kilos of cocaine from the vehicle.
- In January 2015, a NYSIC Intelligence Analyst investigated a Virginia law enforcement agency's bulletin regarding subjects who had used cloned credit cards at a liquor store. The analyst identified a group of individuals from Queens, NY, resulting in multiple out-of-state arrests.
- In 2015, members of the Narcotics Intelligence Unit/GIU developed information regarding a drug trafficking organization in Orange County, NY. A multi-state coordinated investigation into significant cocaine sales between NY and NJ involving two separate outlaw motorcycle gangs culminated in early 2016 with the arrest of 18 individuals, seizure of 4 pounds of cocaine, and a .45 caliber firearm.
- In 2015, members of the Gang Intelligence Unit developed information regarding the criminal conduct of the East Coast Syndicate Outlaw Motorcycle gang. Intelligence developed at the NYSIC sparked an investigation by the NYSP Special Investigations Unit and CNET Capital. This investigation led to the arrest of members of a dangerous outlaw motorcycle gang operating in the Capital District.

The New York State Police Office of Emergency Management, works in collaboration with New York State OEM staff and liaisons with federal, state, and local partners to enhance emergency preparedness and response capabilities throughout the State. The OEM enables the Governor and senior staff to formulate the appropriate level of State support and response during disasters and emergencies.

In 2015 there were some significant events where NYSP OEM helped coordinate efforts:

On January 26 and 27, 2015, winter storm Juno hit Long Island. Over 30 inches of snow fell in parts of Suffolk County as well as significant snow totals in Nassau County of 15-20 inches.

On June 6, 2015, multiple agencies worked the New York Racing Associations Belmont Stakes Race Day at Belmont Park in western Nassau County.

On July 16, 2015, first responders were called to a structure collapse of a parking garage at UHS Wilson Hospital in Johnson City. It had been determined that the second floor ramp of the parking structure had collapsed onto the first floor.

On May 9, 2015, first responders were called to a reported 50 acre brush fire along the Canadian Pacific Railroad in Broome County. Multiple residences were evacuated, displacing approximately 75 residents to nearby shelters opened by the American Red Cross.

Dive Team

The New York State Police Dive Team is the oldest public safety dive team in the United States. Operating since 1932, its 65 members are spread out over eight Troops in upstate New York. The NYSP Dive Team is also the largest in the country and regularly provides specialized services to communities and law enforcement agencies across the state and the Northeast.

NYSP divers perform regular patrol and administrative duties when not assigned to a dive operation. With its arsenal of 21 boats, including four airboats, and a multitude of underwater electronic search equipment, the team can respond to boat accidents, drowning, flood emergencies, swift water rescues, and other water related emergencies.

Members of Troop K and H participate in SCUBA training at Lake Taghkanic State Park in Columbia County, New York.

In March 2015, members of the Troop K Dive Team and SORT Dive Team members, conducted a tactical operation to capture an armed robbery suspect who had fled across the Ramapo River and was stranded on a rock in the middle of the river. Dive Team members utilized a Division Airboat to approach the subject, remove him from the rock and arrest the subject.

In December 2015, Division Dive Team members responded to the Hudson River to search for a homicide victim. The victim was suspected to have been placed in a suitcase and disposed of in the river in the city of Troy. A month-long search ensued, including hundreds of dives, eventually locating of the victim near the Port of Albany, still in the suitcase.

SIU

The Special Investigations Unit (SIU) conducts and supports investigations requiring specialized investigative techniques, including surveillance (physical and electronic), undercover operations, and the use of informants; these investigations are often long term and multi-jurisdictional.
